Hi Lisa and Michele,

Attached is the result of our preliminary review of the Round Mountain aquifer exemption package. In general, we didn't find any "deal-breaking" concerns. On the shaded items, which respond to Michele's request for "high priority" items, additional clarification would be helpful.

A couple of notes:

- We combined the discussion of vertical and lateral confinement in the checklist. (In the Arroyo Grande checklist, we put the lateral confinement information in the section about hydraulically connected water wells, but it seemed like a good idea to put all of this related information in one row.)
- Given the timing for completing this early review, and the amount of information submitted, we were unable to read the over 10,000 pages of the submittal (much of which was scanned PDFs without OCR). We focused the review on the 280 page AE application document and the communications between DOGGR and the Water Board. We may want to ask the state to provide some references/roadmaps to relevant files to facilitate these early reviews of future packages.

Have a great weekend, all.

PS. Also copied on this email is Adam Banasiak. Adam is a Cadmus geologist who works in our Oakland office, in case you need a West Coast presence.
